Use this outline to show how and where your body reacts when you feel angry. Some common body reactions to anger include sweating, racing heartbeat, or clenching fists. Draw a line where it happens on your body and write down the reaction (see example below).